HONOLULU, HAWAI‘I— Throughout the month of May the museum partners with the Polynesian Voyaging Society to connect visitors to the crew of the Hōkūle‘a through programming like the exhibition Hōkūle‘a: Mālama Honua and film screenings examining the ship’s past and future. Sandwiched between the screenings is ARTafterDARK: Worldwide Voyage, presented by Waikiki Parc Hotel.

After making an appearance at Bank of Hawaii Family Sunday, the Polynesian Voyaging Society brings its Aloha ‘Aina Peace Flag project back to the museum. ARTafterDARKers can draw or write on messages on blank flags expressing how they care for their community. The flags will be sewn on to a large quilt and presented to the crew of the Hōkūle‘a during their journey. Then guests can see never-before-shown new footage from the voyage projected on a large screen.

Visitors can participate in Waikiki Parc’s navigation activity. Guests can pick up a Waikiki Parc Passport that detail three locations in the museum. Guests will need to find the locations, take a selfie at each location, and upload them to Instagram with the hashtags #MyPARCstory and #ARTafterDARK and tag @honolulumuseum. Once the passport is completed guests may receive a gift from the Waikiki Parc table and be entered to win a two-night stay in an ocean view room at Waikiki Parc with complimentary parking and breakfast for two at Parc AM.
