ART-O-MAT LOOKING FOR SUBMISSIONS TO GO IN SPALDING HOUSE ART VENDING MACHINE

HoMA teams up with Art-o-Mat for an art contest to find new work for the museum's art vending machine

WHAT: Art-o-Mat contest

SUBMISSION DEADLINE: Sept. 19, 4 p.m.

WHERE: Honolulu Museum of Art Spalding House, 2411 Makiki Heights Dr.

INFO: 532-8704, honolulumuseum.org

HONOLULU, HAWAII (Aug. 5, 2016)—In the 1990s, cigarette vending machines were banned, and artist Clark Whittington found a new use for them—selling art. The first Art-o-Mat was part of a solo show he had in Winston-Salem, N.C. Today 131 Art-o-mats dispense cigarette-pack-size art for $5 a pop across the country in galleries, arts centers, restaurants, hotels, Whole Foods Markets, and museums—including the Honolulu Museum of Art Spalding House.

HoMA retail manager Cori Mackie wants to include locally made art in the museum's Art-o-Mat and is holding a contest to find a new work by a Hawai'i artist. The submission deadline is Sept. 19, and the winner will be selected by Whittington, Mackie, and Spalding House director Aaron Padilla. The winner will be announced Oct. 15.

The HoMA Shop will purchase 50 pieces of the winning artist's work. The selections will be made based on effort, craftsmanship and originality. A key factor in the review process is how the final piece will be viewed in the hands of someone who may never have bought art before.

Complete submission information can be found at honolulumuseum.org/events/15850-art\_o\_mat\_contest.

Whittington will be in town to choose the contest winner, and will give a workshop designed to help artists market their work.
